

Man With an Axe Headed South No Duck-Hunter

If you see Hope Postmaster Robert M. Wilson carrying an axe down South Elm street on his way home tonight you'll know it's for one of two purposes: (1) Either to destroy the telephone, so latecomers can't call him up about buying a federal duck stamp, or (2) to greet others who have the temerity to come knocking at his door.

This is a bad night for postmasters all over the South. The duck season opens at 12 noon Friday, November 18 — and tradition says that a lot of fellows will leave off buying the one absolutely necessary item for a duck hunt, the federal stamp, until the last moment.

"The last moment" means the dead of night. That's when they'll start thinking about telephoning 693 — but 693 won't answer. I have Postmaster Wilson's word for it—693 won't answer.

Nor will anyone blame him. Up to noon today — just 24 hours before the season opens — Hope Post office has sold only 102 duck stamps. Last year the season's total was 611. That gives you a general idea of the hunters' delinquency.

What we are talking about is the Migratory-Bird Hunting Stamp, which formerly sold for $1, but now costs $2, due to congress having amended the Act of March 16, 1934, with a new Act of August 12, 1940.

The stamp costs only $2, but for hunting without it you are liable to a fine of $500, or imprisonment for six months or both.

That's why latecomers will try to call up the postmaster, or beat down his door, all hours of the night — on this particular night.

The federal stamp proceeds go, of course, for the purchase of breeding, feeding and resting areas of land and water for waterfowl restoration purposes. The stamp must be bought by any hunter over 16 years old — and it's available only at post offices.

The federal placard says this stamp entitles a person to hunt "Wild ducks, geese, or brant."

I asked what a brant was — and discovered some hunters don't know any more about it than a non-hunter like myself. I would have guessed that a brant was a coot. But one well-informed gent, remarked that a brant is a small Canadian goose; and he's correct.

(I later discovered he once shot a brant which made everybody else in the argument a flock of sitting ducks). Webster's describes the brant as:

"Any of several species of geese of the genus Branta, of dark colors and small size, breeding in the Arctic regions and migrating southward. They are favorite game birds. . . . The snow goose and the blue goose, of the genus Chen, are also called white branta and blue branta, respectively."

I went up the description of a coot. The dictionary says: "Coot: Any of certain birds of the rail family (Rallidae) constituting the genus Fulica. The coots are more ducklike in shape, plumage, and habits than the rest of the family, and have lobes along the sides of the toes. They are stupid and fly slowly, and can hardly be classed as game birds."

Not worth a coot?
The dictionary says the author of that famous saying was correct.

Youth Center Drops Hobby Show Plan

The directors of the Hope Youth Center decided to cancel all plans for the Hope Youth Center Hobby Show originally scheduled for this Saturday.

It was hoped that the Youth Center could make a wide hobby show a semi-annual event, but lack of interest on the part of youth hobbyists makes that plan an impossibility. Entry blanks had been distributed at various points in downtown Hope as early as November 7 in an attempt to make entering the hobby show as easy as possible. Entry blanks were to be completed and returned to the directors of the Hope Youth Center by midnight, November 16. When the deadline for entering the show had been reached, exactly two entry blanks had been received. The directors of the Hope Youth Center would like to publicly thank the judges who have their time and energy to this project. They are: Chuck Armitage, Syvyle Burk, and J. T. Bowden, Jr.

The highlights of the Federation was the address delivered by O. J. Seymour, district supervisor, vocational agriculture, Arkadelphia.

Early last night Roland Gove, 20, of Haverhill, Mass., admitted to local officers he committed a series of crimes including the fatal shooting of a Negro, critically wounding and robbing a Fulton planter, and kidnapping a Fulton man. He was captured in Texarkana late Wednesday afternoon. His confession followed when confronted with witnesses in Hempstead County Jail. Pictured above left to right: Hempstead County Sheriff Claude Sutton, the youthful slayer handcuffed, Sgt. Milton Mosier of the Arkansas State Police and J. W. (Son) Jones, member of the city police department. All law enforcement officers of this section teamed to run down the slayer.

Farm Bureau at Odds With Administration

Washington Nov. 17 (P)— Relations between the Democratic administration and the powerful American Farm Bureau federation once warm and cooperative have turned frigid. The political consequences may be considerable.

Differences over government farm policies have become so sharp that the federation has decided not to invite Secretary of Agriculture Brannan to speak at its annual convention in Chicago next month.

It long has been the custom of the federation and other national farm organizations to ask the secretary of agriculture to address their meetings, as a sort of titular head of American agriculture. Four other major organizations are continuing the custom.

While relations have been growing cooler for some time, it has been the controversial farm plan advanced by Secretary Brannan that has brought the federation to a virtual no speaking attitude toward the administration.

President Allan B. Kline of the federation has criticized the Brannan proposal as a political scheme to get votes of both farmers and consumers. He also has claimed that it would regiment farmers completely.

The Brannan plan is designed to assure farmers high returns and consumers cheaper food. Government cash payments to farmers would be the principal device for achieving such a dual goal.

The farm bureau and the Democratic administration working closely together after Franklin D. Roosevelt became president in 1933. Both played big roles in getting precedent-breaking crop control laws through congress.

All through the thirties they cooperated on farm legislation and programs. For years, federation officials were close advisors to such Brannan predecessors as Henry A. Wallace, Claude R. Wickard and Clinton P. Anderson.

Differences first started cropping up during the war in connection with farm price control and food subsidy policies. But they did not reach their present wide breach until Brannan put forth his plan last spring.

The split between the federation and the administration may have far-flung political consequences. The farm organization has big memberships both in the South and in the Midwest.

While Brannan was left off the federation program, Senator Anderson (D-Mo.) and Rep. Gore (D-Tenn.), two congressional critics of the Brannan plan have been invited to speak.

Negro Masons to Hold Regional Meet Here

On Saturday, November 19, a regional meeting of Negro Masons, representing the Grand Lodge of Prince Hall Masons, of Arkansas Jurisdiction, will meet with the Keystone Lodge No. 43 at Hope.

'Your Experience Provides the Answer' Legion Tells Broken-Hearted Little Boy

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 17 (P)— "Your experience provides the answer."

That was the American Legion's reply — spoken kindly through its commander — of 11-year-old Laurence Goldstein's heart-touching question: "Why did my daddy die?"

The puzzled little Jewish fellow put the query to his mother after he had been attacked by a group of older boys who called him "Jew," spat on him and beat and kicked him into the gutter.

Laurence couldn't understand why he should be so treated when his father died a war hero while serving with the 2nd armored infantry, 41st division.

Neither could his mother, Mrs. E. Sylvia Goldstein. She pleaded with the world yesterday, through the Lynn Item, to give her the answer to the boy's question.

Commander George H. Craig gave his answer in Indianapolis yesterday.

"You have been the victim of an isolated instance of hatred," he said.

"Your experience provides the answer why your daddy died. He could not stand by and condone mass mistreatment of human beings."

"There were evil men who tried to enslave all the free people in the world. Your father went to war to prevent the wholesale destruction of human rights and freedom."

"All true Americans, whether Catholics, Protestants or Jews fought to re-establish international law so such outrages should not go unpunished."

"Because such brave men as your father died America today remains free and our liberties protected."

The commander told Laurence that "the law and public opinion are on your side and that of every minority in our land who can always get relief from oppression."

And to prove that there's truth in these statements, the police and the local lodge of B'nai B'rith are trying to track down the hoodlums.

U. S. Senators Hear Pope's Warning

Castel Gandolfo Italy, Nov. 17 (UP) — Pope Pius warned today in a speech clearly aimed at Russia that the fear of war would gain the world as long as one nation used force to reduce citizens to slavery.

The pope voiced his warning in a speech at his summer residence here to seven U. S. senators making up an armed forces subcommittee now on a tour of Europe.

The pontiff was unusually blunt in declaring that a state created a "sorry mess" of civil society by eliminating the Christian principles of justice and charity.

Referring to the application of justice for the third time in two weeks, he told the senators that "law, however wise can hardly hope to prevail so weak or perverse is human nature unless it has the backing of a reasonably force."

"But the true function of that force will be to protect and defend the right given to men by God and just law, not to whittle them down and crush them," he said.

The senators said after the private audience that they were impressed by the speech. They said the pontiff "seems to be in excellent health."

The senators were Elmer Thomas (D-Ohio), Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.), Ernest R. McFarland (D-S.C.), Willis Robertson (D-Va.), John C. Stennis (D-Miss.), John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) and Edward J. Thye, (R-Minn.)

62,955 Federal Employees Are Out of Jobs

Washington, Nov. 17 (P)— An overall reduction of 62,955 federal employees in four months was reported today by a senate-house committee thinks to cuts in civilian employment by the military forces. Civilian employment in the executive branch of the government totaled 2,657,061 in September a reduction of 33,045 from the previous month.

It was the fourth month in a row in which the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures has listed a drop in federal employees.

All Hope persons planning to attend the Patmos Homecoming barbecue Tuesday night, November 22, are asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce. Sponsors of the barbecue must have some idea of how many plan to attend. The Hope delegation will leave in a group at 5:30 p.m.

U. S. Turns Down Offer From Meyers

Washington, Nov. 17 (P) The government has turned down an offer by former Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers to settle at the war-crime trials against him for about $50,000 cash.

The offer was advanced several weeks ago by Meyers' attorneys. It included a proposition that the former air force purchasing chief, now in prison and seeking parole, would plead guilty to a single misdemeanor count in connection with income tax filings if the justice department would drop projected felony prosecutions.

An income tax misdemeanor carries a maximum sentence of one year where as a felony is punishable by as much as five years in prison.

The justice department and internal revenue bureau have declined to discuss the proposed settlement, but it was learned today that they have notified Meyers' counsel that the plan is not acceptable.

The exact amount of Meyers' tax liabilities is in dispute, but government sources, conceding the possibility of overpayments and duplications have estimated that it might run as high as $100,000.

This would include the ex-general's 1941-46 personal income returns and income and excess profits taxes of aviation electric corporation of Dayton, Ohio, plus interest and penalties.

Meyers is under a series of felony indictments at Baltimore in connection with his returns and additional tax claims are pending against the Dayton firm which Meyers is alleged to have owned secretly during the war.

Meyers is now at Lorton, Va., reformatory serving a 30 months to five year term for inducing an associate to testify falsely before a senate committee about his wartime business connections.

Meyers lost his rank and was dropped from the army as a result of that conviction.

Snow Falls in Great Lakes Section

By The Associated Press

Daytime temperatures of above freezing today were expected to melt much of the record November snowfall which blanketed Buffalo, N. Y. The snow which fell over parts of the Great Lakes region also was expected to melt rapidly during the day.

Show storms were reported in parts of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota today and also in Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y. but no further increase in snow depths was reported. The 1911 fall at Buffalo in 26 hours broke the previous November record fall of 14.5 inches in the 1920. The fall at Detroit Mich., measured nine inches and was eight inches at Marquette, Mich.

Temperatures were above normal in the Northern Plains states and near normal in the Great Lakes region and the New England states. The Far West and Southern states reported fair weather and reported readings a little above normal.

Captured in Texarkana After Fulton Crimes

A 20-year-old ex-convict, Roland E. Gove, confessed to local officers Wednesday night to fatally shooting a Negro, critically wounding and robbing a Fulton man and kidnapping another in a series of crimes in the Fulton area yesterday that had practically every law enforcement officer in this section taking part in the manhunt.

He critically wounded and robbed Tom Seymour, 52, of Fulton, fatally shot Matthew Runnels, 45-year-old Negro of near Sheppard and kidnapped Lee Helton also of Fulton. Seymour is in a local hospital with a bullet hole through his chest and is given a 50-50 chance to recover.

Gove was captured about 3:30 p.m. yesterday in downtown Texarkana. Ironically it was Dick Turnage, Hope taxi-driver who in- nocently took Gove to Texarkana, that pointed out the slayer to Texarkana officers.

His confession came in Sheriff Sutton's office about 7 o'clock last night when he was confronted by Charles Wright, Sheppard Negro, who drove him to Hope after Gove had wrecked a car he had stolen from one of his victims, Prosecuting Attorney James H. Pilkinton said.

Charges of first degree murder and kidnapping will positively be filed against the young slayer heretoday. Prosecuting Attorney James Pilkinton said.

When Gove was arrested in Texarkana he was wearing new blue jeans and shiny new clothes. His old clothes and $50 in money was found by Sgt. Milton Mosier, Arkansas State Police, and Allen Shipp, deputy sheriff, who went to Texarkana to aid in the search. The gunman had $27 with him and admitted taking more than $100 from Seymour.

He told officers he had served time in the Oregon State Penitentiary for car theft while in the army and said he had received a dishonorable discharge.

Miller County Sheriff W. E. Davis said the gun used and later found by the wrecked automobile, was stolen in Texarkana Tuesday, a fact that Gove admitted.

A Turkey had left Deputy Sheriff Homer Burke of Hope when he spotted the slayer across the street. He couldn't find Burke and notified police. Officers Homer Goff and Texas Deputy Sheriff Frank H. Hester, who were the first to arrive and the slayer offered no resistance.

He was taken to the Texas police station for questioning, then transferred to the Miller County Jail. Sheriff Claude Sutton of Hempstead, Tex., Police Officer J. W. Jones, and Prosecutor Pilkinton returned him to Hope.

Gove denied at first any implication but admitted riding to Texarkana with Turnage.

John Godwin, operator of Highway 67 restaurant, identified Gove as a man who had come to

Insists a Businessman's Office Makes Him Tired — Should be Comfortable

By HAL BOYLE
New York (P)— What makes the tired businessman tired?

"His office," said Leonard Hutton, interior decorator.

"A man's office should be like his den at home — comfortable and relaxing."

"But what is the average office like? It has an oversized desk — that's to show he's an important man — a swivel chair, two stiff chairs for visitors, and a leather covered sofa. On the wall is a map of the United States — with flags stuck in it to impress his customers with how many salesmen he has across the country."

Hutton clucked disapprovingly. "It's too sober — too dull. It gives him no lift. Badly designed rooms make people tired and nervous — but they don't realize why. A man can work more efficiently, if he should have some music, a hidden bar for entertaining prospects, no glaring lights, and colorful draperies that can be drawn automatically — by pushing a button."

"And no wall maps — good pictures or personalized photographs," he said. "Nor do you have to have some crazy guy decided Gothic was a good style."

"You should have comfortable chairs arranged in a friendly seating group. Conference tables are no good. Who ever felt at ease at a conference table?"

Search Starts for Missing Fishermen

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 17 (P) An air and ground search was under way today for two Memphis fishing pals who disappeared at Horseshoe Lake Ark., last night. Missing are Robert V. Fallon and Charlie C. Jaco. They are feared to be drowning victims.

A fishing camp operator, Gus Zanone of Memphis, said he heard calls for "help" shortly after dark but found nothing on reaching the scene.

An all-night search by friends of the two failed to reveal either the men or their boat.

Two coast guard planes were sent out today to circle the East Arkansas lake for a possible clue.

Truman May Act to Prevent Dec. 1, Strike

Washington Nov. 17— (P)— All signs point to presidential action today to stop a new coal strike from starting in two weeks.

President Truman was reported ready to ask Union Leader John L. Lewis and coal operators to submit their contract dispute to a fact-finding board for a peace plan.

In lieu of that method, Mr. Truman could invoke the Taft-Hartley labor law. This calls for naming a fact-finding board to hold hearings and report the issues in dispute, after which a strike-banning court injunction could be sought.

Mr. Truman may make his decision known at a late afternoon news conference. Officials indicated that he may propose the special fact board first, and if Lewis rejects that idea, invoke the Taft-Hartley emergency provisions by Monday.

(The New York Times said today in a Washington dispatch that the White House staff prepared for presidential action has tentatively selected three men to serve on a board of inquiry. The Times story, based on authoritative information, said all three men are experts in arbitration and industrial relations. Their names were not made public.)

The six-month-old coal dispute was put in the President's hands yesterday. Cyrus S. Ching federal mediation service chief, reported to the White House there seemed to be little hope in trying further to get Lewis and the operators to agree on a compromise.

Lewis has asked for more wages and shorter hours for miners. He also wants a boost in the present 20-cent-a-ton levy on coal production which goes to finance his union's welfare fund. The fund pays for miners' pensions and insurance benefits.

Coal operators have refused to boost their labor costs. They have

Shah of Iran Seeking Military Aid

Washington Nov. 17 (P)— The Shah of Iran said today he "certainly" will propose to President Truman an increase in American military aid to his country.

"Iran is important to the peace of the world and especially to the security of the Middle East," the shah said in a news conference.

The youthful shah, who arrived yesterday for a month's good will visit said also:

"Iran's relations with its big neighbor, Soviet Russia, have improved a little lately. The Iranians 'are always willing to be friendly with our neighbors but always on a basis of mutual respect and independence.'"

"Iran is interested in the future creation of a Middle Eastern defense pact, like the North Atlantic treaty, but the time is 'a little too early.' The country's economy should be strengthened first."

"What has impressed him about the United States thus far is 'the well being of your people.' He said 'they have happy faces are well attired, and look friendly.'"

Planes Collide in Mid-Air, 7 Dead, 11 Missing

Stockton Calif., Nov. 17 (P)— Two airforce superforts collided 28,000 feet above Stockton at mid-night. One fell in flames. The tail of the other fell off and it crashed in flames.

Four of the 22 men aboard were saved. Seven were found dead in the wreckage. Eleven are missing.

Detailed checking eliminated one survivor report by Los Calif. police. The four survivors — all at the navy annex of the Stockton supply depot after treatment for minor injuries — are:

Lt. Warren F. Sharrock, whose home, ironically is only 26 miles east of Stockton in the Sierra foothills.

Pvt. Keith R. Burns 19, Boise, Ida., apparently the only survivor of the burning plane.

T-Sgt. B. Schmidt McGley, Ohio. Sgt. Robert S. Kluge, 28 Spokane.

The sheriff's office field party radioed three bodies had been taken from the plane that burned on a McDonald Island jetway on the San Joaquin river in the Delta nine miles west of here.

State Highway Patrolman Bill Alott said four bodies were taken from the plane that crashed six feet deep into the mud on the ridge tract two miles north and across the San Joaquin river.

The wings of this plane were intact but the tail assembly had collapsed.

A radio from the field party at this plane ordered all spectators cleared from the area because of high octane gasoline fumes.

Hamilton Field, 25 miles west of Stockton, said the plane that burned was one of the 300 B-29 Superfortresses that were in the bombardment part of the war.

The crash occurred at 11:50 p.m. in fog came from one of the survivors Lt. Warren F. Sharrock, whose home is only 26 miles from Stockton. The lieutenant staggered into Edward Kenyon's King Island fishing resort bleeding from a head injury.

"The other plane ran smack into us," he gasped.

The Kenyons heard the crash. They were out looking for the plane in the fog when Sharrock arrived.

The Lodi, Calif., police department said its men had picked up four other enlisted men.

One of these was Sgt. Robt. S. Kluge of Spokane, who said he parachuted from the ship later found stuck in the mud. He had reached a King Island fishing resort, and called the sheriff's office at Stockton one of the first to report the disaster.

Veep to Fly to St. Louis for Wedding

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 17 — (UP)— Vice President Alben W. Barkley arrives by plane today for his marriage to Mrs. Capleton S. Hadley.

The attractive 35-year-old widow was expected to meet him at the airport this afternoon.

The ceremony takes place at 11 a. m. tomorrow at St. John's Methodist church in West St. Louis.

Mrs. Hadley hopes to get some rest in between greeting her relatives and those of the Barkley family, 34 in all, who were arriving for the ceremony.

Later, any bride she was due for an appointment with a hair dresser. She will get a facial and have her dark gray-flecked hair put up in a specially-designed coiffure.

Mrs. Hadley would not reveal the design of her wedding dress. However, her friends whom she worked with at Washington university and the Wabash railroad were invited to look at the trousseau.

None would describe the outfit except to say that it was "beautiful."

The 71-year-old vice-president and his bride will be tonight probably will begin opening the hundreds of gifts sent from all parts of the country.

President and Mrs. Barkley's marriage will be opened first. No one knows what is in the many parcels piled up in Mrs. Hadley's modest West End apartment.

Mrs. Hadley was disappointed that her father, Roy W. Rucker, a Kansas City lawyer, could not attend the ceremony. He is recovering from a stroke at St. Luke's hospital there and must use a cane. He told his daughter it would be better if he didn't come as crowds "make me nervous" and the excitement might aggravate his condition.

his place with Seymour late Tuesday night and again early Wednesday morning for breakfast. Godwin told officers that Seymour told him he picked Gove up on East 9th street. Godwin said Seymour apparently did not know Gove.

Shortly before Gove was arrested he was spotted coming out of a Texarkana coffee shop by Deputy Sheriff Dean Parson of Hope but lost him in the crowd. He turned in the alarm almost at the same time Turnage did.

Gove told officers he had been to a picture show during the afternoon and that he had been in Texarkana three days.

The affair started when Seymour and Gove left the Texarkana cafe early Wednesday morning. When they arrived at Fulton Gove held up Seymour and took "more than a $100 from him."

Lee Helton living nearby heard the disturbance and approached to investigate. Seymour resisted Gove then forced Helton to put the injured man in Seymour's car and the three drove about four miles to Sheppard.

Seymour was dragged from the car and placed on a creek bank on old Highway 67. As Gove prepared to tie Helton with a belt, a truck occupied by two Negroes drove up. Helton hit Gove with his fist and fled. One of the Negroes, Matthew Runnels, was killed; the other, named Smith, fled. Gove got in Seymour's car but wrecked it enroute to the Highway. He talked Charlie Wright, a gro resident of Sheppard, into bringing him to Hope.

Before hiring a taxi, he had a cup of coffee at a local cafe and while there three Hope policemen, unaware of what had taken place, walked in. Gove bought a package of cigarettes and caught the taxi to Texarkana.

Turnage said that while he was enroute to Texarkana he saw police cars and an ambulance on the highway but did not know what had happened. He let Gove out in Texarkana and was shortly after picked up by officers who quickly linked his passenger to the kidnapping robbery and shootings.

The annual Kiwanis and Lions club charity post-season football game will be played at Hammons stadium December 2. All proceeds from the game will be turned over to the Hope Youth Center.

So this year the clubs will try to make it another real ball game. No player that participated in college or high school football this year will be eligible.

Teddy Jones, Jimmy Jones and Clyde Trickey will officiate. Lawrence Martin will coach the Kiwanians and Foy Hammons will coach the Lions.

On the side tables were lovely arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums in green containers, with streamers of huckleberry extending the length of the table. Gold tapered in green candleholders were placed at intervals along the table.

Seeks New Trial for Manslaughter

Atlanta, Nov. 17 (UP) — The defense today will seek a new trial for Hugh D. Gravitt, 29-year-old taxi driver who was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter yesterday in the traffic death of novelist Margaret Mitchell.

A Fulton county superior court jury deliberated one hour before returning the guilty verdict and fixing Gravitt's sentence at from 12 to 18 months in jail.

Under Georgia law the jury could have specified a maximum sentence of three years for the slight bespectacled Gravitt.

Judge Walter C. Hendrix delayed pronouncing formal sentence until today to allow Defense Attorney A. L. Henson to appeal for a new trial.

Gravitt, who was off duty and driving his own car when it struck down the famed author of "Gone With the Wind" last Aug. 11, claimed on the witness stand that "newspapers, magazines and politicians crucified" him before he could even stand trial.

Among those who would not appear he said, was the doctor who wrote the prescription which Gravitt said he was going to have filled when his car struck and fatally injured the 46-year-old Miss Mitchell.

Gravitt's face tensed and went white when the jury brought in its "guilty" verdict, but he had no comment.

John Marsh, husband of the author who witnessed the accident said only that he felt "the ends of justice have been met."

Marsh was one of the prosecution's principal witnesses. He and others testified that Gravitt was driving at 40 to 50 miles per hour when his car knocked Miss Mitchell to the pavement of Peachtree st. on Aug. 11.

She died five days later of "massive head injuries and tearing of the brain," according to the testimony of Dr. Charles Downman.

Baptist Offered Control of State College

Little Rock, Nov. 17 (AP) — The Arkansas Baptist State convention was to be offered control of Southern Baptist college, Walnut Ridge, today.

President H. E. Williams of the Junior college in northeast Arkansas said the offer would be made by the college's board of trustees.

Southern Baptist which has an enrollment of 607, has been controlled by Baptist interests and is receiving some financial aid from the convention. The convention has had no official control over the college, however.

The value of the college was placed at $1,279,900 in a report prepared by its officials.

The state convention's meeting was to be concluded today.

Messengers last night heard Dr. Harold E. Ingram business manager of the Southern Baptist Sunday School board, Nashville, Tenn., described communism as a challenge to Southern Baptists.

Of communism he said: "Any movement which seeks to deny the existence of God, the worth of the individual and to undermine the American way of life ought to be fought. The way to do it is to reach the people and teach the word of God."

U. S. at Odds With Both Sides in China

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—The United States found itself at odds today with both sides in the conflict in China. Secretary of State Acheson was trying to figure out what to do about the situation.

On the one hand he had the problem of taking new and it possible more forceful steps to get Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek out of a communist jail at Mukden.

On the other hand he was confronted with a need for decision on whether to take the government position that the United States should take regarding the shelling of the Flying Cloud, by a Chinese nationalist warship. The warship was seeking to enforce a blockade of communist-held ports which the United States does not recognize as a legal blockade.

Acheson told a news conference yesterday that the effect of the imprisonment of Ward and four other consulate staff members at Mukden had already been to end any possibility of even considering American recognition of the Chinese communist regime.

He added that the state department is doing everything it can and considering all possible steps to obtain Ward's release. What steps may be actually under study he did not say.

The Flying Cloud incident had already produced an American protest to the Chinese nationalist government. This was on the grounds that American lives were endangered when the nationalist warship shelled the vessel which was outbound from Shanghai Tuesday.

On announcing this protest Acheson carefully pointed out that it was solely concerned with the danger to the Americans on the vessel. It did not go into questions involving legal issues, arising out of the blockade itself.

3500 Attend Ducks Unlimited Party at Little Rock

Little Rock, Nov. 17 (UPI)—More than 3,500 Arkansians yesterday attended the Ducks Unlimited party here last night and heard indications that flights are expected to be heavy in the Mississippi flyway.

Arkansas is in the Western section of the Mississippi flyway. The season opens at noon Friday.

Arthur Bartley, national manager of Ducks Unlimited, was the principal speaker. He said that conditions in the Canadian breeding grounds point to heavy flights of both ducks and geese.

He said that Ducks Unlimited now has 280 projects in Canada, compared with 77 a year ago. More than $2,000,000 has been invested in the Canadian breeding project he declared.

The CAMEO

By Virginia Teale Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

The Story: Martin Falter was murdered with a small, sharp pointed instrument which has not been found. His death seems to involve a valuable cameo which he had tried to sell. The body had been reported to police by Tom O'Neill whose wife Nell was supposed to own the cameo. But before they report to police, Hagar Blair and Stephanie Smith, her assistant, had found the body. The police have learned this but they do not know that Hagar Blair found the cameo placed in her collection cabinet. Hagar believes it was put there by Arnold Pfeffer, who was commissioned by Falter to sell the cameo. Assistant Chief of Police Peters on the case is Charlie Reddy, a young lawyer, and Lansing, Mr. Trotter, a federal agent. The case has international roots says Trotter. Iano Martin Falter had previously served a term for blackmail.

Charlie Reddy swerved the car away from a day-dreaming cocker spaniel. "Even the dogs are asleep in this town," he said to Chief Peters. "Did the coroner find what put Martin to sleep?"

"The good old standby, sleeping pills," came the reply. "Same kind that knock people off all the time. Ought to be a stricter law on those things. Coroner Hughes said the pills alone probably would have done for Falter. That's the one good clue we've got. The murderer must've been drinking wine with Falter — granting that the same person did the poisoning and the stabbing."

As the police car pulled up in front of Falter's Reddy found a parking place after some difficulty and followed the chief through a swarm of people to the porch where Police Officer Abrams was keeping sightseers away. They entered the club and Reddy rummaged his hands in his pockets and turned toward the bedroom.

"This'll be another look around in here."

The chief nodded after him: "Fingerprints won't tell us anything. Probably 100 different people running in and out of her with in the last week. No clues, no weapon, no —"

Reddy broke off, noticing that the chief was staring at the blood-stained bed.

"Fanny looking pillows. Man'd get a kick in his neck, sleeping on those things." He ambled over and idly brought a huge fist on one end of the bolster. It sank a few inches and the chief worked to straighten it. "Look at that, now," he fussed. "Man'd spend half the night standing on his head in this distorted bed." He gave the bolster a mighty tug and then took an astonished step backward.

The two men stared down silently into a rectangular hole between the edge of the mattress and the headboard. The chief reached down and explored a wood frame built in neatly on a level with the bottom of the mattress.

"Kept something here," Reddy chewed his underlip thoughtfully. "Box of some kind, probably."

Suddenly he made a dash for the other room.

"Chief," he called. "This is it." He stoode through the door carrying a narrow box of unpainted wood.

The two men saw at once that it fitted the hole perfectly.

Peters scratched his head: "Question is, what was in it? Murderer made off with whatever it was. Money, d'you think?"

"Alibi." But remember what Trotter said about blackmail?

Seems to me we're faced with the problem of the Missing Papers."

Andrey Yakov, sitting comfortably in front of his hearth, stretched his stockinged feet toward the slow dancing flames. The firelight was absorbed by the dull red of his flannel lounging robe, but it was reflected vividly in the cobalt eyes of the Siamese cat sitting on the arm of his chair.

He stroked the cat's taffy-colored fur.

"When we return to Russia, Babushka, I will provide you with caviar. Occasionally, it is the only thing you will like about Russia."

Hands clasped behind him he surveyed the canvas approvingly: "I have you examined this, my friend? For one afternoon's work it is a remarkably good piece. I show something here, a certain quality, which is the essence of the American — man or woman. Here, defiance, aggressiveness, determination. Look here at these eyes, Babushka: Dark and sharp

Imprisonment of U. S. Envoy Ward Retards Any Recognition of Chinese Reds by U. S.

By DeWitt MacKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Acheson was using plain, though international language when he said in Washington yesterday that Chinese communist treatment of American Consul General Ward who is in a Mukden jail, with four of his staff, removes any present possibility of considering recognition of the new Red Chinese government.

This comes on the heels of repeated failures by American authorities to secure news about Ward and his colleagues, who are accused of being a Chinese employee. Even American Consul General O. Edmund Clubb in Peiping has been rebuffed by top communist leaders.

It also comes at a moment when the Red regime at Peiping, which is seeking recognition by the great powers, is boldly challenging the United Nations. Communist delegates to represent the country in the United Nations. Thus far none of the members outside the Soviet regime which still ranks as one of the big five in the peace organization have shown any disposition to oust these representatives of the dead.

That got quick action. Incidentally this famous message was suggested by the late Edwin M. Hood, member of the Washington staff of the A. P.

Well of course nobody is suggesting the sending of any "Raisuli" message to Peiping. A firm and unemotional stand by the Western powers may be expected to produce results in due course if for no other reason than that communist China will badly need the assistance of the West in the rehabilitation of that vast country.

This imbroglio has an interesting and important side issue. It is such together with the commonwealth and with other friendly governments rather than taking a hurried decision on this. I think a combined decision in which a large number of people cooperate in this business is much the best."

The case of consul general Ward and his staff has produced much comment throughout the United States. Comment by observers has even brought a reference to President Teddy Roosevelt's handling of the historic Raulsuli-Perdicaris case of 1904.

Perdicaris a wealthy American, had been seized and held for ransom by the notorious bandit chief, Raulsuli. The message which went forward to the sultan of Morocco over the signature of Secretary of State John Hay was: "Perdicaris alive or Raulsuli dead."

That got quick action. Incidentally this famous message was suggested by the late Edwin M. Hood, member of the Washington staff of the A. P.

Well of course nobody is suggesting the sending of any "Raisuli" message to Peiping. A firm and unemotional stand by the Western powers may be expected to produce results in due course if for no other reason than that communist China will badly need the assistance of the West in the rehabilitation of that vast country.

This imbroglio has an interesting and important side issue. It is such Britain has been seriously considering the idea of recognizing the Peiping government. Her economic interests in China are far greater than those of any other foreign power and she naturally is gravely concerned. However, one would expect Downing street to move slowly now in view of the American position. In fact British Foreign Secretary Bevin, speaking in the house of commons yesterday regarding recognition, said: "I am more concerned in acting had sharply intent gray eyes. Yakov gave the trio a pleasant nod: "Yes, gentlemen?"

Chief Peters was equally pleasant: "Mr. Andrey Yakov? I'm Peters, police chief in Lolorosa. Mr. Trotter, here, and Mr. Reddy are working with me. We have a few questions to ask you. Won't take long."

(To Be Continued)

CUSTOMERS' CORNER

Why will food prices go up if the anti-trust lawyers win their suit to put A&P out of business? Here is just one of a number of reasons:

We manufacture many of the quality foods we sell in our stores, such as Boker, Red Circle and Eight O'Clock coffees, Ann Page foods, White House milk, and many others.

Because this saves us money we are able to pass along these savings to our customers in the form of lower prices.

The anti-trust lawyers have asked the court to order us to get rid of our manufacturing facilities, which would put an end to all these savings.

Make no mistake about it. If the anti-trust lawyers succeed in putting A&P out of business you will find your food bill higher.

Typhoon Hits Isle Outpost of Guam

Agana, Guam, Nov. 17 (UP)—Residents sought shelter in caves and other storm shelters today as the first winds of a 100-mile-an-hour typhoon whipped this island outpost.

The navy weather bureau announced that the full fury of the storm would hit here for several hours. But strong winds already have knocked down quonset huts and smashed small boats in Apra harbor. The island was placed on a "condition A" alert.

A B-29 weather reconnaissance plane plotting the storm reported that it had gained momentum as it sped from the Carolinas to the Marianas islands.

Whether the typhoon would hit Okinawa or Japan was not known.

But on this island business places ceased operations and were boarded up and only emergency traffic was permitted on roads. Radio-equipped vehicles were strategically placed throughout the island to provide emergency communications.

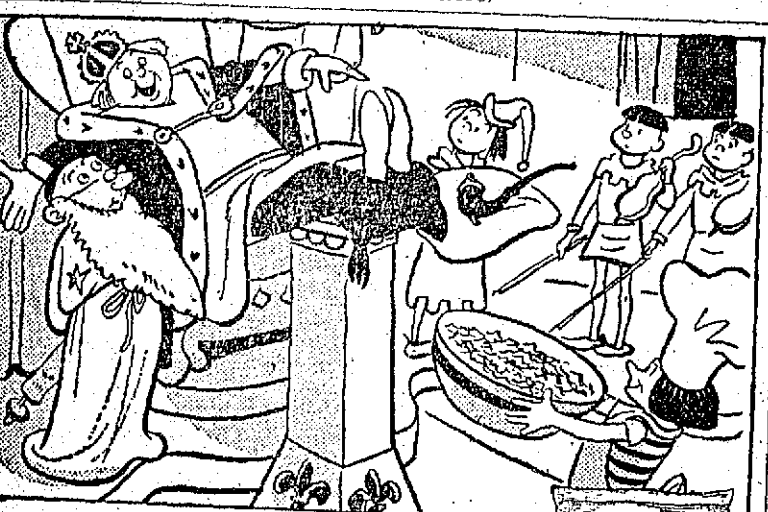

The typhoon was designated as "Alvin."

Indications were that the typhoon will not hit the island squarely but will pass to the south. But villagers moved to storm shelters or the most strongly built homes, stores or schools in the villages. Residents of the seaside village of San found refuge in caves.

Memphis Plans to Get Truman to Opening

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 16 (AP)—Plans call for an all-out effort to get President Truman to come to Memphis for the opening of the new Mississippi river bridge here in January.

Shirley D. Smith, executive secretary of the corporation set up to stage "the biggest show in Memphis history," said today Mr. Truman hasn't been to Memphis since he became president. But with the help of congressmen and others, Smith said, "we would be able to get him here."

Smith also visualized in tentative plans, the inviting of all 49 governors, senators from the tri-state area and the president of the American automobile association.

In addition invitations may be extended to the mayor of every city and town in Tennessee, Arkansas and North Mississippi.

The $15,000,000 Memphis and Arkansas Bridge is expected to be ready for traffic by Jan. 15. The celebration has been set for Jan. 13-14.

Smith also said he hopes to have every available boat on the river massed under the new and old bridges to sound a symphony of whistles and sirens. In the air he said, may be a curtain of aircraft, from big bombers to speedy jet fighters.

The celebration committee presently is busy trying to raise around $25,000 by public subscription and the festivities bill. The entire thing is being sponsored by the chambers of commerce of Memphis and West Memphis, Ark.

U. S. Protests Red Attack on Ship

Washington, Nov. 16 (AP)—The United States is protesting to the Chinese nationalist government against a Chinese warship firing on an American merchant vessel. Secretary of State Acheson told a news conference today that an immediate protest is being made against this endangering of American lives.

Acheson also declared that Chinese communist treatment of American Consul General Angus Ward at Mukden presently roves any possibility of considering recognition of the Chinese communist government.

He said some progress is being made in efforts to obtain the release of two ECA officials held by the communist regime in northern Korea.

Russia in response to an American request is taking up the matter with the Korean communist authorities, Acheson said.

Acheson discussed the Far Eastern situation after first summarizing his meeting in Paris last week with the British and French foreign ministers and his subsequent trip to Germany.

What Is Right Answer to This Plea?

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 16 (AP)—A heartbroken widow in an open letter today pleaded with the world to give her the right answer for her 11-year-old son's question "Why did my daddy have to die?"

Mrs. E. Sylvia Goldstein, widow of Maurice Goldstein, who died the 2nd armored infantry 41st division on Nov. 20 1944, wrote the Lynn item:

"On Wednesday evening Nov. 9, my eleven-year-old son, Laurence, was waylaid x x x by several large boys. These boys insulted, spat, beat and kicked my son into the gutter because he was, as they sneeringly said, 'A Jew'."

"Ironically enough my son was coming home from a Boy Scout meeting—a meeting at which one of the watchwords I believe, 'A scout is reverent, he is reverent toward others he is faithful in his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion.'"

"Maybe if he had run away he would have been spared a beating. But being the son of a veteran, killed in the service of his country, he could do no less than stick it out against unfair odds and strike out against injustice even as his father did before him."

"Perhaps if such incidents were brought to the attention of the public there would be fewer heartbreaks like the one I mention. Maybe then I would know the right answer to give my son when he asks: 'Why did my daddy have to die?'"

The item said the mother had not reported the incident to the police but that the puer had and the local chapter of Beta B'nai was investigating the matter.

Churches Told to Stay Out of Politics

London Nov. 16 (AP) Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, told churches today to stay out of politics.

"The church should not attempt to devise remedies for particular social, economic or industrial evils," he said. "That is the function of technicians such as politicians and administrators."

Sir Stafford told the churches: "We do not want politics in our religion but we do want Christian standards in our politics."

The Labor party is concerned over a series of recent speeches by Church of England prelates as to what part churchmen will play in next year's general elections.

The archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril F. Garbett told his diocesan conference No. 8 that "it is unavoidable" unless British industry can produce more goods to sell overseas. We called on the government to "make the facts known to all" on the economic crisis.

ARKANSAS MAID OF COTTON HOPEFULS TO HEAR TOMMY DORSEY

Latest entries in Arkansas' Maid of Cotton contest are representatives of two state colleges. Left, Virginia Ann Magnus, of Emmet, Ark., 19-year-old senior at Henderson State Teachers College in Arkansas. She is sponsored by the school's Heart and Key organization. Right, Ellen Williams, 20, of Franklin, is sponsored by the Arkansas State College Organization at the Jonesboro school. One of the thrills in store for the Arkansas Maid of Cotton aspirants at the contest in Little Rock, Nov. 25-26 is a gala cotillion and his famous orchestra will stop in Little Rock on their way from Houston's Shamrock Hotel to an engagement at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. Winner of the Arkansas contest automatically will be awarded a $1000 scholarship, an air trip to Cuba, and a $500 high-fashion cotton wardrobe. The Arkansas Maid of Cotton program is under sponsorship of the state Junior Chamber of Commerce. All Arkansas girls who wish to enter the state contest should contact Franklin E. Loy, executive manager of the program, Box 1913, Little Rock. Entrants must be natives of a cotton-producing state, between the ages of 19 and 25, at least 5 feet 5 inches tall, and must never have been married.

DOROTHY DIX
Courts Married Woman

Dear Miss Dix: A pal of mine, a likable young fellow of 30, is going out with a woman ten years his senior — a married woman. He has not lived with her husband for three years. I maintain it is not the correct thing to do, and I can see no harm in it and I don't seem to be able to find words to explain my aversion. I only know that it is against my way of thinking.

against home-wreckers that makes you feel that there is something wrong in your friend going out with a woman who is still married although she does not live with her husband. And your sentiments do you credit.

Status of Divorcee
But when a woman has been separated from her husband for three years she automatically takes on the status of a divorcee and there is no reason why any man should not pay her attentions if he wishes to. He is in no way responsible for the break between her and her husband, and he does nothing to augment the trouble between them. But I think, just to keep the record clean, that if the woman wishes to go about with the freedom of a single woman, she should get a divorce. That will prevent her from being the subject of gossip.

Your friend's age, too, should make a difference in your attitude toward the subject. If he were a young and inexperienced boy, you would have reasons to think that it was a foolish thing for him to be running around with a woman who was still legally bound to another man, and especially one who is ten years older than he. But a man of 30 is old enough to know his own mind and certainly nothing that any one can say is likely to change his opinion.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am scared to death that I am going to be an old maid and I don't want to be one, but there are no eligible men in my little city and I have no opportunity to meet many men from other places. In this town there are quite a few of the prettiest old maids — lovely women who have never married just because they never had the opportunity.
Can you suggest anything for a girl in my position?

GREEN EYES
Answer: Nothing except to go where the fishing is better. But where the good catches are to be made, Heaven alone knows. It is certainly not in the small town from which practically every able-bodied and energetic youth emigrates by the time he is 20 and where only senile grandpas and schoolboys are left. Neither is it in the cities, where the cost of living is so high that it puts marriage out of the question for most men until they are middle-aged and where the numbers of girl bachelors grow yearly larger and larger.

Still, for all of that, nothing venture, nothing have, and the girl who finds eligible men scarce in her community is wise when she strikes out into new fields. For a new girl often attracts a man who had been thought a confirmed bachelor or widower and who had been given up as hopeless by the local maidens.

Dear Miss Dix: My husband is always chasing some woman. He spends his money on them, and doesn't support my son and me. I am desperate and am thinking of taking the easy way. I have traveled the hard straight road and got nothing in the end, and if I would go the other way I would at least have pretty clothes and the gay life. What do you think of it?

PEGGY
Answer: Well, Peggy, I don't think that two wrongs ever make a right, nor do I think that because a man waltzes on his marriage vows it gives his wife a right to quit on hers. Your business is bringing up your son to be a fine man and you can't do that if you are setting him the example of leading a bad life yourself.

Besides, the primrose path isn't strewn with expensive clothes and night clubs for any but the youngest and most alluring girls. Look about you at the bleary, slovenly, shabby women of the street if you want to know how much it pays.

Truman in Reducing Contest

Washington, Nov. 16 — (AP)—President Truman and two members of the White House staff are engaged in a weight reducing contest.
It is to end Thanksgiving day. After that, all bets are off. The President is ready to have received five turkeys for next week's holiday feast.
White House officials said the contest started last month after the President had joshed Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, his military aide, and Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, his physician, about their excess poundage.

Each is to pay a dollar — some said it was ten dollars — for each pound he remains above the set goal a week from tomorrow.
The President weighed around 180 pounds when the bet was made. And he is supposed to get down to 175. Graham and Vaughan were in the neighborhood of 220 and they are trying to slim down to an even 200.
Graham was reported in the lead today. He is down to 202. The President weighs 178, and Vaughan about 212. Their reducing systems including dieting, exercise and massage. Mr. Truman is laying off pastries and gravy in addition to exercising.
The wager was to have original

Kramer Wins

Boston Nov. 17 — (AP)— Professional Champion Jack Kramer has his 12th win over Dick (Pancho) Gonzales, the 1949 national amateur tennis champion, today as the "play-for-pay" tennis troupe headed for Providence, R. I., the 16th stop on its long tour.
Kramer impressed a 7430 crowd with a 6-4, 6-4 victory last night at the Boston garden.
Pancho Segura defeated Frankie Parker 3-6, 6-0, 6-4 for his 11th win in their 15 exhibition matches, dated during a trip to Charlottesville, Va., October 8 when the President complained "he couldn't see around" his two aides in the car because of their heft.

Hotel Dog Show Really Is Doggy

New York, Nov. 17 — (AP) — The swank Hotel Pierre opened its door to a dog show today — about the doggiest dog show in fact, that anybody ever dreamed up.

Among those present: A welsh terrier wearing a coat of mPariis, with a little white handkerchief peering from the pocket.

A boxer wearing a red raincoat with a hood, and waterproof leather boots to match.

An Afghan (name of "Jitterbug") wearing a green peaked hat with a bird — yes, a complete bird — on it, to say nothing of an emerald green coat with a deep fringe.

Some 250 women, mostly from the social register, plunked down $3.25 each for a bite of lunch and a close-up view of these and assorted other canine specimens.

And Mrs. Olga Hone Rogers, president of Dogs, Inc. and chief-founder of four-legged fashion models for the occasion, said their money was well spent.

"This," she said, "is easily the greatest collection of champions ever seen outside of a regular dog show."

The show is for the benefit of the New York Tuberculosis and Health association and the sponsors decided to run it perfectly deadpan — just like a two-legged fashion show.

Spotlights were set to train on the prize-winning pooches as they descended a ramp — under a first, then all dolled up in their finery for a repeat performance.

House detectives were on hand, too.

Not only were the dogs valuable but some of their costumes ran into money.

A miniature pinscher, for instance, came wearing — brace yourself — a white angora seater, a silver leash and a guaranteed genuine diamond collar.

Mrs. Rogers said, "do the dogs like it? Mister, they live it! You can just hear the lovely, dumb things saying 'Isn't this fun? Look what they've put on me now!'"

Accused Red Spy Finally Says Something

New York, Nov. 17 — (AP) — Accused Soviet spy Valentine Gubitchev relaxed his no-to-everything attitude for the first time today.

He said thanks, in Russian, to Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan.

The judge had ordered that Gubitchev be given a free copy of the minutes of court proceedings leading up to his trial with Judith Coplon, on spy conspiracy charges.

Through an interpreter, Gubitchev said: "Thank you your honor."

Until now the Soviet engineer has refused to plead or accept a court-appointed lawyer. He contends that he has diplomatic immunity since he was a United Nations employee at the time of his arrest.

The minutes Gubitchev will get at government expense are those of a pre-trial hearing, expected to end today, to determine whether Miss Coplon's arrest was legal and whether the seized contents of her purse should be returned.

Miss Coplon's lawyer Archibald Palmer, asked a free copy for her, too, saying she was without funds. Ryan told him to submit an affidavit of her financial condition.

Palmer said earlier he was not getting a cent for defending Miss Coplon. He said he took her case because he was an old friend of her family and added that he was even paying some of Miss Coplon's bills.

Bitter Enmity Between France and Germany Is Drawback to European Rehabilitation

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

One of the greatest boons for peace and rehabilitation of Europe would be a solution of the bitter enmity between Germany and France—and from important quarters comes guarded word that there is hope the breach may be healed.

British foreign Secretary Bevin told an audience in London that the recent Paris meeting of the Big Three foreign ministers (America, Britain and France) dealt with "probably one of the biggest problems of all — the integration of Germany into Western civilization." And then:

"I am sorry I cannot say anything about these discussions here. It was a very delicate matter to handle."

"We can only hope that the results of these discussions will be the beginning of the ending of the age-long feud between the French and Germans."

The unexpected statement by one of the world's leading statesmen was preceded by other equally surprising pronouncements from the hostile camps themselves. Going back to the early part of this month, we find French Foreign Minister Schuman trying to convince his people that the best way to avoid trouble with the Germans is for the two countries to become good neighbors instead of suspicious rivals.

That's strong medicine for the average French citizen to swallow. However, not only Schuman but other French officials said the chances of ending the old Franco-German feud were better than ever before in history.

And a few days later Ludwig Erhard, economics minister for the new West German republic, predicted in Paris that the future of European cooperation will depend on Franco-German cooperation. He said it should be easier now to bring the two countries together because their economic ideas correspond.

Erhard told a news conference he was in Paris to find an economic basis for a political agreement which he expected would be concluded soon. He said Germany recognized the French need for security guarantees and was willing to make sacrifices in order to hasten its readiness and was willing to make sacrifices in order to demonstrate its readiness for reconciliation.

Sounds encouraging doesn't it? Certainly things seem to be moving in the right direction. However, we shall be wise if we don't jump to sweeping conclusions.

The enmity between Germany and France is deep-seated. There still are Frenchmen who can remember the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 in which France suffered so grievously. The terrible siege of Paris in which the capital was reduced to stark hunger. The loss of the province of Alsace and part of Lorraine, and the great indemnity of $1,000,000,000 to Germany.

And more than a generation and France again was overrun by the Kaiser's world war troops while Germany itself didn't suffer so much as a scratch physically. And then the bloodiest tragedy of all—World War II.

France has developed both hatred and fear for "the boches" as she has bitterly designated the Germans. For many decades now she has lived in constant dread of invasion from Germany. That is why she tried, through ineffectual policy after World War One to secure the creation of a French-controlled Rhenish republic to act as a buffer state. And it's why she has been insisting on curbing Germany's great industrial Ruhr which through both world wars provided the main sinews for Germany's aggression.

Fear and hatred breed fear and hatred. And so over the years there has grown up this mighty Franco-German barrier which Allied statesmen are now trying to remove. There finally is general recognition of the fact that rehabilitation of Germany is essential to rehabilitation of Europe and that there cannot be full rehabilitation of Germany until the Franco-German quarrel is settled.

This recognition in itself is a hopeful sign.

Fair Enough

Washington, Nov. 17 — Thus far the reconstruction of our presidential palace on Pennsylvania avenue has consisted of demolition and the place is a mess. There are great square holes in the floors cut intentionally to permit soundings and samplings of foundations and to reveal invisible details of the structure.

There are holes in the walls of most rooms, disclosing the pipes and the distinctive nature of the masonry of successive periods. One such hole, on the middle-landing of the grand staircase shows smudged stones back in the shadows of the niche and someone has concluded, perhaps correctly, that this blemish is a souvenir of the fire of 1812 when the dirty redcoats burned our White House down. Some authority has painted neat little anagors on the walls by these holes calling attention to these interesting peculiarities. A small metal pipe was a gas-line installed back in the 'eighties. The first bathroom was installed in the future this new-fangled affection would be sanitary.

The grand staircase is ugly and square and more like a back stairs, really, and, for that matter, the White House is just an old hunk that might very well be abandoned as a palace and used for a museum, or torn down. The outside is deceptive. An architect might wince, but most laymen find it pretty and there may be some thing to the suggestion that some other peoples of the world regard it as a symbol of hope and freedom. But the interior is a terrible patchwork and the engineers were amazed to find, through a hole in a corner of the floor of the old cabinet room, that the interior walls of the foundation were only one foot deep, resting on clay.

The outer foundation is almost five feet deep and five feet thick, but even that is not enough for the burden so the new foundation will have concrete piers 20 feet deep. When you examine the brickwork where the plaster has been chipped off in spots, you discover that some of the square windows originally were arched doors and that other windows and doors were bricked in entirely some time way back. No record has been found giving the details and dates of these changes so these explorations have been exciting fun. No bricked-up skeleton or cobwebbed each of Old Squareface has been found as yet.

In the ceiling of the blue room, so-called because the walls have been blue from time to time, though not always, there are square steel plates with the bulks of steel rods sticking through. It was necessary to drop these rods through from the roof to hang the ceiling, which otherwise was about to come down. The east room, a big ceremonial hall with a fancy ceiling of plaster cornucopias, cupids and nonsensical is cluttered with scaffolding built in the nick of time, to keep the whole thing from falling. It jiggled and rippled and how come it never dumped eight or ten tons of plaster on the beauty and chivalry of the Roosevelt court God only knows. For it defied the law of gravity and the principles of engineering. This part is relatively new, too, built in 1902.

In the upper halls you have to step over great 12 by 12 beams notched together in a horizontal pattern for the purpose of some how measuring strains. The president's study on this floor is a little room with no great stretch of floor, but over so, until the engine got after it, the floor rippled like rubber ice if two or three persons walked across it at once.

The Joe Lash room, where President Lincoln slept and where he signed the emancipation proclamation on Jan. 1, 1863, is a sorry sight, the floor gritty with down plaster and the brick walls show many patches. This is where the Great Garbo's brand from the burning did sack fatigue after he got saved from communism and one of the memory books of the household staff has since told us that Eleanor the Great's precocious protege became a steak ad-diet after he established social relations with the White House mess and ordered nothing but steak, steak, steak, even when rationing and red-points were upon us. But even if so, that needn't have been as voluptuous as it sounds. The occupants of the White House successively leave individualist reputations and the Roosevelt reign is going to be remembered as the era of chicken salad and the worst meals this side of the coffee shoppes of a southern hotel. When the old girl said she had no knack for housekeeping she wasn't kidding. Nevertheless, the kitchen ran from eight in the morning until two next day. There was no system and the joint was constantly cluttered with guys and dames on the make one way or another who just moved in with their stuff and stayed. It was unquestionably the cockeyedest congregation of parasites, grifters, harpies and queer characters ever seen offstage. Some comedy types never even heard of were guests of the taxpayers for years and years.

When Truman set up a meal schedule of breakfast at 7, lunch at one, and dinner at 7:30, and abolished the greasy spoon auxiliary, half the culinary staff dropped dead.

The reconstruction is about to begin any day. But by now Truman doesn't care much about living in the old heap so even if it takes two years more to do the job, he won't mind. It is strange that he held out for that silly Bala balcony, but probably he just got stubborn when they crossed him. There is no point in arguing whether it is worth the money to rehabilitate the White House. We are going to whether it makes sense or not.

PANTRY PORTRAIT—Rose Marie Rudnick of St. Paul, Minn., a macaroni factory employee, displays the portrait of President Truman, made out of macaroni, she prepared as a gift to President Truman when he visited the city.

PUERTO RICO'S BID FOR TOURISTS—Of striking architecture, this new $6,000,000 hotel in San Juan, P. R., is one of the results of Puerto Rico's five-year, self-financed industrial battle to stabilize its economy. The new hotel, 10 stories high, with 300 guest rooms in a wide range of rates, is part of the island's bid for the Caribbean tourist trade.

DONE UP BROWN—The Flanders brothers of Windsor Locks, Conn., almost make up a fair-sized class at Brown University, Providence, R. I. The brothers are, top to bottom: Samuel, 27, and Urban, 26, seniors; Cyrus, 21, a junior, and John, 19, a freshman. Their father, Cyrus Flanders, is a "Brown man," too, which may account for the family preference for Brown.

TO BECOME SECOND LADY—This is the first formal portrait of Mrs. Carlton S. Hadley to be released since she announced her engagement to Vice President Alben Barkley. The couple will be wed in St. Louis, Mo., on Nov. 18.

THE WINNAH!—Phillip Gorman, age 3, holds Buster, the prize alley cat that topped top honors in a cat parade and contest in New York's Greenwich Village. Buster won the title "Homeliest Cat."

"HOME" IN TOKYO—Think you have a housing problem? Look at the plight of this young Japanese mother "at home" in a part-cave, part-shack in Tokyo. A government white paper reveals that 10,000,000 people in Japan are existing in sub-normal housing. Three and a half million dwellings would correct the situation.

RECORD CORN CROP—Albert Halsey of Midland, Mich., stands beside a crib holding some of the record corn crop his farm yielded. The harvest averaged 163 bushels per acre, compared to an average yield of 46 bushels per acre in the state. Yields like this are helping put the skids under the price of pork chops.

IT COMES OUT HERE—Put the "Brannan Plan" for farm price supports on canvas and it looks like the horn of plenty. At least it does for Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, who painted this picture and contributed it to the second annual exhibit of paintings by famous amateurs in New York. Title of the picture is "The Brannan Plan."

FOR IDENTIFICATION—President Truman—rather, Colonel Truman of the Field Artillery Reserve—proudly displays his new ORC identification card. The card, first of more than 500,000 being issued to reserve personnel, might help him cash a check in a strange town.

NEW GUNS FOR THE NAVY—The experimental ship, USS Mississippi, carries this new twin-barreled, six-inch gun mount, designed for both surface fire and anti-aircraft. A minimum crew of five can operate the mount. The plastic bubble, giving all-around vision (arrow), allows one officer to control the fire direction.

HOLLAND HANKIE—On a "thank you" visit to Memphis, Tenn., Mayor Meine van Veen of Enschede, Holland, displays a souvenir handkerchief made in Holland from mid-South cotton. His audience is Betty Fay McAllister and Hugh Allan, Jr., representatives of all Memphis school children who sent boxes to Enschede after the war.

HEADS NEW UNION—James B. Carey, above, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, heads the new "International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers" that replaces the old left-wing United Electrical Workers Union, expelled from the CIO at the organization's convention in Cleveland.

"LOOK . . . NO HANDLEBARS!"—August Paul of Munich, Germany, has switched the driver's seat of his motorcycle into the sidecar. Paul built the ingenious vehicle in his workshop and is demonstrating it to Marianne Zimmerman, United Press correspondent in Munich. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff correspondent Gerhard P. Seinig.)

"HOT, DRY RUN" FOR JET "SCRAM SEAT"—Zoom! To the top of a 103-foot tower in two seconds shoots Marine Sgt. Thomas W. Watson of Farmville, Va. At the Philadelphia Naval Base, Watson was testing a skyrocket device which duplicates the "tides" of a jet pilot when he uses an automatic ejection seat to free himself from a crippled plane. The high speed of the seat started it smoking at 40 feet, right, but the sergeant was unhurt. The skyrocket trainer will be used to teach pilots what to expect when they spring out of a crippled jet and parachute to earth.

HE DIVES FOR SUNKEN "TREASURE"—At left, diver Bob Forrest is lowered by his helpers into the Crown Zellerbach log pond at Port Angeles, Wash. He's going down to search for "treasure" in the form of sunken logs. "Treasure?" you say. Darn tootin'. Loggers up in the woods float great "booms" of logs down the river to the sawmills. A boom consists of thousands of logs, chained into a giant raft. About 5 per cent of the logs become waterlogged and sink. And at present lumber prices, that ain't hay. Hence the salvage operation. Picture at right shows Forrest supervising recovery of one of the logs he located below the surface and hooked on to the salvage hoist.
